INTRODUCTION

GOP Intervenors have yet to come up with a single valid justification for disenfranchising thousands of Pennsylvanians. There is none. Enforcement of the envelope dating requirement against domestic mail ballot voters on pain of disenfranchisement is antidemocratic and wrong. And as the Secretary of the Commonwealth confirms, the envelope dating requirement serves no purpose. Summary judgment should be granted and appropriate relief should issue.

ARGUMENT

I. PLAINTIFFS HAVE STANDING.

GOP Intervenors' justiciability arguments fail for the reasons set forth in Plaintiffs' omnibus opposition brief, ECF No. 444, at 3–10. For example, with respect to Plaintiffs' standing to sue the Secretary, it does not matter whether he can bind the counties (see GOP Opp. Br., ECF No. 439, at 4) because he plays an independent role in administering the Election Code's mail voting provisions, including by prescribing the form of the envelope declaration and maintaining the SURE system. See, e.g., Pls.' Omnibus Opp. Br. 7. GOP Intervenors are also wrong claiming (at 3) that the Secretary is the "sole defendant" as to the constitutional claims; those claims run against all of the remaining county defendants as well, Pls.' MSJ Br., ECF No. 402, at 13–16; Pls.' Omnibus Opp. Br. 7–9, and any contrary prior decision would not be law of the case because Plaintiffs could not have appealed it.

GOP Intervenors get nowhere with FDA v. Alliance for Hippocratic Medicine, 602 U.S. 367 (2024) ("AHM") (GOP Opp. Br. 5–8). See Pls.' Omnibus Opp. Br. 2–6. Implicitly acknowledging that Havens Realty Corp. v. Coleman, 455 U.S. 363 (1982)

still controls, GOP Intervenors try (at 6–8) to recast Havens, suggesting that it involved some intentional targeting of the plaintiff housing counseling organization HOME by the defendant apartment complex.<sup>1</sup> But HOME’s theory of injury was resource diversion, not any personalized attack against it. 455 U.S. at 379. AHM reaffirmed the resource-diversion framework. 602 U.S. at 393, 395; see Pls.’ Omnibus Opp. Br. 4. And Courts have since applied AHM to hold that voting rights groups like Plaintiffs, “whose core mission is to educate and assist voters,” suffer a cognizable injury in fact when they divert resources from preexisting activities to combatting a new challenged policy’s antidemocratic effects. See League of Women Voters of Ohio v. LaRose, No. 23 Civ. 2414, 2024 WL 3495332, at *5 n.3 (N.D. Ohio July 22, 2024).<sup>2</sup>

II. THE UNEQUAL TREATMENT OF DOMESTIC AND OVERSEAS VOTERS VIOLATES EQUAL PROTECTION.

GOP Intervenors’ arguments against Plaintiffs’ Equal Protection claim were dispatched in Plaintiffs’ omnibus opposition, Pls.’ Omnibus Opp. Br. 10–18.

GOP Intervenors (at 10) misread Obama for America v. Husted, 697 F.3d 423, 435 (6th Cir. 2012), a case that firmly supports granting summary judgment here. There, the Sixth Circuit acknowledged that military voters’ “absence from the country is the factor that makes them distinct” as compared to domestic in-person voters, but <sup>1</sup> The person in Havens who was given false information was one of the two “tester plaintiffs” posing as a renter. 455 U.S. at 368, 373. There was no allegation that those tester plaintiffs had any connection to HOME’s counseling or referral services or that defendant provided any misinformation to HOME’s counselors. Id. at 373.

<sup>2</sup> By contrast, Citizens Project v. Colorado Springs, No. 22 Civ. 1365, 2024 WL 3345229 (D. Colo. July 9, 2024) (cited by GOP Intervenors at 7), wrongly ignores diversion-of-resources standing altogether, never assessing whether the challenged actions interfered with the plaintiffs’ core activities. See id., at *4–5.

then concluded in the next sentence that, “[w]ith respect to in-person early voting, however, there is no relevant distinction between the two groups.” Id. The same is true here. With respect to overseas mail ballot voters as compared to domestic mail ballot voters, there is no relevant distinction (and GOP Intervenors point to none) that justifies treating one group of mail voters’ paperwork with lenience while subjecting the other group to harsh disenfranchisement. See Pls.’ Omnibus Opp. Br. 13–15; see also, e.g., Rinaldi v. Yeager, 384 U.S. 305, 309 (1966) (Equal Protection “require[s] that, in defining a class subject to legislation, the distinctions that are drawn have ‘some relevance to the purpose for which the classification is made.’”).

GOP Intervenors also repeat (at 11–12) their meritless suggestion that the right remedy for the violation here would be to “level down” and disenfranchise military voters. The opposite is true. Pls.’ Omnibus Opp. Br. 17. Indeed, the only case GOP Intervenors cite makes clear that, where a court must determine whether to level up or down, “[o]rdinarily,” “extension, rather than nullification, is the proper course.” Sessions v. Morales-Santana, 582 U.S. 47, 74 (2017). That is true here, where counting the ballots of registered, eligible voters would safeguard fundamental rights, and where GOP Intervenors’ proposed course would trample them.

III. EXCLUDING VOTERS’ BALLOTS BASED ON A MEANINGLESS MISTAKE IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

GOP Intervenors’ Anderson-Burdick arguments also fail, as explained. Pls.’ Omnibus Opp. Br. 18–25. They again suggest (at 12) that the Constitution offers zero protection to mail ballot voters, even those faced with unjustified disenfranchisement. This startling proposition is wrong. See Pls.’ Omnibus Opp. Br. 18–19. And they invent (at 12–15) a supposed exception to Anderson-Burdick for supposedly “minimal” or “usual” burdens on voting where none exists. See Pls.’ Omnibus Opp. Br. 18–21.

Mainly, though, GOP Intervenors just downplay the burden imposed by the ruthless enforcement of the envelope dating requirement against Pennsylvania voters, suggesting that paperwork is just an “essential part of everyday life.” GOP Opp. Br. 13.<sup>3</sup> But depriving a citizen of something as important as an effective vote, with no notice or practical recourse, e.g., SMF ¶¶ 38, 115, because of a minor, meaningless mistake, would strike most as grossly unfair and unreasonable, not as the unremarkable workings of everyday bureaucracy. Cf. Fla. State Conf. of NAACP v. Browning, 522 F.3d 1153, 1187–89 (11th Cir. 2008) (Barkett, J., concurring in part and dissenting in part) (disenfranchisement of voters due to “numerical mishaps” “turned back the clock on the fundamental right to vote”). It does not matter that writing the date is not especially onerous. The burden of requiring “technical precision” on irrelevant paperwork may be “small for most people” yet still violate the Constitution, particularly when it results in thousands being disenfranchised.<sup>4</sup> Ne. Ohio Coal. for the Homeless v. Husted, 837 F.3d 612, 632 (6th Cir. 2016).<sup>5</sup>

<sup>3</sup> They also cite (at 13) an inapposite immigration case, Niz-Chavez v. Garland, 593 U.S. 155, 172 (2021) for the proposition that “[m]en must turn square corners when they deal with the government,” but omit the full sentence: “[T]hen it cannot be too much to expect the government to turn square corners when it deals with them.”

<sup>4</sup> The evidence shows that seniors are disproportionately affected. Pls.’ MSJ Br. 10. GOP Intervenors are wrong (at 16) that this impact is irrelevant. See Opinion, Eakin v. Adams Cnty. Bd. of Elections, No. 22-cv-340 (W.D. Pa.), ECF No. 330, at 4–5; accord Ariz. Democratic Party v. Hobbs, 18 F.4th 1179, 1189 (9th Cir. 2021).

<sup>5</sup> GOP Intervenors wrongly claim (at 16–17) Husted was not an Anderson-Burdick case, but it was. See 837 F.3d at 630–35.

The fact that the Secretary has promulgated a new directive regarding the design of the envelope declaration form to try to mitigate the problem (GOP Opp. Br. 14–16) is a good thing, but it does not change the constitutional calculus.<sup>6</sup> GOP Intervenor's concede (at 16) that previous efforts to improve the compliance through design of the form still resulted in noncompliance rates of close to half a percent of all mail ballots—which, statewide, translates to thousands, if not tens of thousands, of voters. There is no justification for such mass disenfranchisement.

Indeed, whether rational basis or a more heightened standard applies, GOP Intervenor's point (at 17–19) to no state interest that is actually served by disenfranchising voters via enforcement of the meaningless envelope dating requirement. Pls.' Omnibus Opp. Br. 24–25 (rebutting proffered interests). As the Commonwealth itself explains, the envelope dating requirement is a useless relic, it “does not prevent fraud,” and it “undermines sound election administration.” PA Br., ECF No. 440, at 6, 14, 23–25. Because it lacks any “legal or administrative purpose,” “rejecting ballots for mistakes with respect to that date serves no state interest.” PA Br. 2. This unjust, unjustified, undemocratic, and unlawful practice must end.

CONCLUSION

Plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment should be granted.

<sup>6</sup> In any case, these changes are irrelevant to voters, including the individual plaintiffs, who were disenfranchised in 2022. Moreover, voters who were disenfranchised for writing the wrong year made up a small fraction of the thousands whose votes were excluded. SMF ¶¶ 66–71, 73–76.
